

The Red Fox likes to eat rodents, snakes and fruit.

The Golden Mantle Ground Squirrel likes to live in Mountain Regions. It looks like chipmunks but doesn't have a stripe on its face.

The Golden Mantle Ground Squirrel likes to live in Mountain Regions. It looks like chipmunks but doesn't have a stripe on its face.

Wildlife Memory Game

Do you want to have fun learning about animals? Print out these two pages of wildlife cards using heavy weight paper or card stock, color the animal pictures, cut out each card and you are ready to get started.

To play: Lay each card face down on a flat surface and mix them up. Test your Lassen Volcanic National Park wildlife knowledge by reading the interesting facts on each card and test your memory by finding its match. Whoever has the most matches wins! Or whoever can memorize the most facts win! Play both ways to really challenge your memory.

You will be a Lassen wildlife expert in no time! To learn more about the wildlife here at LVNP check out our online store. You will find our Wildlife collector series lapel pins, patches and an artistically illustrated Nature Guide to name a few.

Suitable for ages 5+

Peak Your Curiosity!

The beaver likes to make its home by using tree branches and is found along streams.

Black Bears live in wooded areas and like to eat insects, berries, and meat.

Bobcats like to eat rabbits and other small animals.

Snowshoe hares live in forests and thickets. They change color in the winter and their toes spread to form a wide snowshoe surface.

The Red Fox likes to eat rodents, snakes and fruit.

Bobcats like to eat rabbits and other small animals.

The Pine Martin lives in the forest and eats squirrels, mice, birds eggs, and fish.

The Mule Deer like to eat grass, leaves and twigs. They live in forests, brushy areas and desert shrubs.

The Pika lives in rocky areas. They like to eat grasses and herbs.

Black Bears live in wooded areas and like to eat insects, berries, and meat.

Snowshoe hares live in forests and thickets. They change color in the winter and their toes spread to form a wide snowshoe surface.

The Pika lives in rocky areas. They like to eat grasses and herbs.

The beaver likes to make its home by using tree branches and is found along streams.

The Mule Deer like to eat grass, leaves and twigs. They live in forests, brushy areas and desert shrubs.

The Pine Martin lives in the forest and eats squirrels, mice, birds eggs, and fish.

